The eleven members of the annual Senior Tabula Staff enjoy a unique privilege in being delegated to interpret Oak Park-River Forest High School to all who care to know.

It is the duty of our book to reflect, in both its entirety and minute detail, the school as we know it, and as we live it. Every photograph must form part of the pertinent background against which four years of our lives are painted; each page-plan must have the personal rhythm of our daily activities; every line of copy must beat to the student tempo. It is the students, after all, for whom this book is created and it is the combined efforts of each individual student that produce this book.

If, as you skim through, or maybe even read, our Opus No. 1, the peaks of an eventful year live again in your mind; if in time to come, your life at Oak Park-River Forest High School as reflected throughout these pages, is recalled a little more tangibly, then our book will have proven its worth. We put the Tabula to the test!

THEME

At Oak Park-River Forest High School, we live, not according to normal seasons of the sun, but in definite divisions of student activity, punctuated by periodic leaves of absence. On that scheduled September Tuesday, the waiting candle of the coming school year was ignited by the spark of student enthusiasm, and has continued to burn in spasmodic spurts as the events of 1940-41 waxed hotter and hotter, until, now, barely a touch of tallow remains as we approach that natural climax of every year, commencement.

We think of these natural divisions in terms of the events that have high-lighted them; and so they are recorded in this book, separated by the diminishing candle.

To you

WE OF THE CLASS OF '41 DEDICATE THIS VOLUME, A MIRROR OF OUR STUDENT LIFE. WE ARE GRATEFUL FOR THE INSPIRATION OF YOUR LEADERSHIP, THE KINDNESS OF YOUR UNDERSTANDING, THE WARMTH OF YOUR FRIENDSHIP, AND, VERY IMPORTANT TO US, THE CHEER OF YOUR SMILE.

R. N. Ketcham — Principal

IN 1917 MR. KETCHAM BEGAN HIS LONG CAREER AS DEAN OF FRESHMAN BOYS; HUNDREDS OF BEWILDERED AND HESITANT FRESHMEN FOUND IN HIM A STAUNCH FRIEND AND SYMPATHETIC ADVISOR. HE HAS SEEN THE SCHOOL DEVELOP AND BROADEN AND HAS GROWN WITH IT, UNTIL LAST YEAR HE WAS HONORED BY BEING APPOINTED PRINCIPAL TO CARRY ON THROUGH DIFFICULT YEARS.

HIS PATIENCE, WISDOM, KINDNESS AND UNDERSTANDING HAVE MADE HIS WORK AN EXAMPLE TO BE CHERISHED BY FACULTY AND STUDENTS ALIKE. WE SALUTE YOU, MR. KETCHAM.

Swing wide, Oh Gates of Learning! Swing wide enough to admit 3,700 eager students returning from far and wide to keep that September date with Miss DOOP.

Not many days had passed before activities commenced and Senior Class Officers came up for election, and again a clean sweep for the popularity party! . . . The ever-active Girls' Club was quick to catch that renewed student spirit in a "too true" performance of "What a Life." The High School was on display before proud parents when open house was declared for a sunset session. The visitors arrived and the school was transformed into a goldfish bowl. . . . In a few Saturdays football arrived and the school was transformed into a Rose Bowl. . . . With athletics in the "spot," Glen Cunningham was summoned to speak to assembly and yield to the howling of the autograph hounds. . . .

. . . And now, on to Thanksgiving!

Freshmen

When one sees a group of Freshmen gathered for a class assembly, the general tone of intelligence of the members convinces him that the days of green caps and "credit kits" are a matter of history or legend.

The bewildered, bewildering Frosh has become our eager-to-learn yearling of first floor fame.

He is eager to learn the intricacies of the science of etiquette so that he may successfully assume the new responsibilities thrust on him by high school society. Miss Wright, through practice in her Freshman English classes, renders complacently courteous the once confused cadets and turns them out capable of coping with the most trying of Post problems.

Freshmen girls were officially admitted to the school ranks through the special Freshman Party of Girls' Club.

Senior girls were delegated to take the yearlings under their protecting wings for the afternoon's festivities.

Freshmen have their classes, too, such as this one under the guidance of Miss Chamberlain—Senior scholars in the making.

The ex - grade - schoolite has come to us not only open-mouthed but open-minded. He fears Sophomores, respects Juniors, worships Seniors, and looks to the faculty for guidance in conduct, and progress in intellect. Some day he's going to be a Freshman no longer. Some day he's going to be a Senior and look back at his picture in this annual and wonder at what a queer little fellow he was.

Football and Soccer start the sports season

. . . And student blood begins to beat to the tempo of the football and soccer spirit.

Oak Park not only has a perennially tough football schedule, but theirs is always the "big game" for which our opponents train and strain. This season those opponents trained and strained a few strokes better than par, and the Suburban League Championship went to Evanston and Proviso, leaving the locals sole possessors of second place.

The twin Waterloos of Evanston and Waukegan were the games that pricked the 1940 Championship bubble for the boys-of-the-orange-and-blue.

The season, however, wasn't without its compensations. Compensation of the first order was the upset-triumph over Proviso that brought chills and cheers unknown in many a previous Saturday Saga—a fitting climax to the most unpredictable season since the pre-monopoly days of '34-'35. The Suburban Football League has once more become, like the National League in the baseball world, a circuit of stiff competition and surprise endings.

Although gold footballs have not appeared in the possession of the Holmesmen, of '40, the shining soccer spheres dangling from the local key chains have proclaimed the Woodsmen Suburban League Champions. It was only the fateful Crane Game that kept the locals from the Cook County Championship and the chance to win greater glory in the State Games. Before the 3-0 trouncing they received from the present State Champions, our soccer boys had succeeded in holding their 19 opponents to a final sum of 1 point while they themselves piled up the tremendous total of forty-three.

Boy, it was murder

The boys responsible for systematizing and synchronizing that all important "stands-spirit," constitute the energetic, yell-a-minute cheerleading staff. The group this year, all seniors, was composed of Bruce Larson, Dick Sword, Dan Hawley, Gene Golub, and was led by Chuck Jenista "Cheerleading Charlie, the Noise From Every Game." Real progress was made in announcing the cheers, by making use of the stand's public address system, thereby reaching even the remotest ears and reducing the use of the traditional megaphone to a minimum.

It takes innovations to keep the crowds contented with the limited number of cheers, and to keep at a low ebb the unlimited number of jeers. Novelty highlights came in the form of appropriate jingles introducing the cheers, and a new muscle—musser special, dubbed the "loco-locomotive," which the fans finally fathomed before many weeks had passed.

It takes more than white slacks and double joints to make a cheerleader. Hours of practice, weeks of experiment and jars of liniment are all part of the recipe.

Varsity Football

"Now if he'd only moved over this way a little—"

Varsity Football at O. P.-R. F. has ever maintained a reputation for brilliant plays and equally brilliant players. The 1940 season, in that respect, was on a par with the best.

Outstanding were Jim Dewar, husky halfback, whose spectacular ball carrying, passing, and punting, class him in the sacred ranks of triple threat stars, and have earned him all-state honors, to boot; Li Bock, whose express train plunges and precision place-kicking place him on the roll of honor, and whose five-o'clock-final field goal with an injured foot won for him the title of "movie-hero"; Blake Walker, who directed a great majority of the 60 minutes of each game with coolness and sagacity; Co-captain Jim Thon, whose work in the line was of major importance; Co-captain Bill DeButts, exponent of the perfect block, whose on-the-spot interference went unexcelled throughout the season; and Harry Oberhelman, Captain-Elect of the Varsity of '41 whose mutilating plunging power successfully took the place of the injured Bock.

Through the diligent efforts of Coach Holmes and his assistants, Mr. Woodruff, and Mr. Gocker, the Varsity of 1940 succeeded in scoring a sum total of one hundred and twenty-seven points, while holding its eight opponents to thirty-three credits, resulting in its capturing second place honors in the final Suburban League standings.

The Junior Varsity football team was faced this season with six exceptionally strong opponents. Holding its own against heavy odds, the Jay Vees managed to balance three wins against three losses for a season of .500 ball.

The best record of any grid squad this year was maintained by the Lightweights. In a truly sensational season of six contests, the scale-models assembled a score of eighty-eight points, while their own goal line remained undefiled by foreign forces.

Another undefeated detachment was the 1940 Fresh-Sophs. Eight fine opponents fell before the underclassmen to the total tune of 169 points for the locals, as against 13 for assembled opponents.

Soccer at Oak Park-River Forest is taking giant strides toward becoming one of the most popular of the major sports. Consistently fine teams have testified to Coach Wood's already fine reputation as a soccer mentor. The slightly confused final standings list the locals as second only to the present state champions. Special credit for a fine season is due to Co-captains Mottis, whose 21 goals easily top this section of the country, and Phil Harris, who is excellent on both defense and attack.

Girls' Sports Indoors and Out Through the Seasons

Girls' Sports are organized early.

While the boys in the stadium were busy making sports headlines, the girls were initiating their fall athletic program in their own modest way. Each year this program caters to an ever increasing number of girls who find refreshing relaxation in such restful pastimes as field hockey, speed-ball, archery, and ping-pong.

The doors of the girls' gymnasium had not been open for business many days before the hockey enthusiasts were off with the sound of the three-twenty bell. The frosty crack of ball against stick beat out the tempo of black shin-guards flashing by on running legs. The sound of the student referees' whistles began and ended the extra-curricular frolics and punctuated the cries of the fleet Amazons. After four weeks of fundamentals and general brushing up, the intramural tournament was under way. Four years of experience stood the victorious seniors in good stead as they vanquished juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, in turn. It was a hardy group of enthusiasts that braved the wintry blasts to complete the six-week season on a blanket of snow with the ball inked purple and noses frozen blue.

Hockey

Table Tennis

In proportion to the size of the "courts," table tennis is much more strenuous and exacting a game than the senior sport. Thus the after-hours residents of the girls' gym find out annually in their table tennis tournaments. (Anyone referring to the sport as "ping-pong" is automatically eliminated.) Earlier in the year, hockey furnished competition; but soon the wintry winds drove the feminine frolickers indoors, where the nets and paddles stood in readiness. Prospective contestants in the tournament entered in class A, B, or C, according to ability or optimism. A unique feature of the contests was the presence of a losers' tournament, so that one loss would not result in complete elimination. Careful records were kept of each match until a winner was found in each of the divisions, and a school winner was proclaimed "Mistress of the Midget Courts."

Speedball

Stampede

Speedball is the game used by freshman girls as a stepping stone to hockey skill. The game is somewhat like field hockey, but concentrates on the all-important fundamentals—fundamentals that will assure these girls of a strong foundation for future seasons. Two teams were selected from the thirty girls who turned out for the sport; but since it is primarily a game for training, no tournament was held. This work of starting the athletic program is ably handled by Miss Good for the Girls' Physical Education Department.

Archery

With the twang of the string for tempo and the "Overture to William Tell" for mood, our local Lady Cupids annually engage in the skill-demanding sport of archery. Anyone who has boldly taken bow in hand and shot an arrow at random, learns that archery is an art mastered only after skilled instruction and diligent practice.

Those participating are divided into beginning and advanced groups. To be classified as advanced, a girl must complete at least one Junior Columbia Round, which consists of twenty-four arrows from each of three distances: 20, 30, and 40 yards.

A girls' archery team is now in the process of formation, and several interscholastic meets are being planned.

Not bad!

Girls' Physical Education

Variety is the keyword of the girls' gym classes. The assorted activities are parceled out anew every eight weeks to allow the girls to gain proficiency in a number of different body-builders and back-wrackers. Swimming at least once a year is a minimum requirement in the program. If a girl's posture fails to measure up to the standard, a course in special exercises is her lot. In fall thore are beginners' hockey and tennis to drain the dextrose; in winter, marching, volley-ball, and basketball; while spring brings advanced swimming and life-saving, advanced tennis, and baseball, to round off the sports season. To complement class work, after-school athletics are offered throughout the year.

noking Council

udent Council

Student administration at Oak Park-River Forest is delegated to three largely independent student-governed councils: Safety Council, Smoking Council, and Student Council.

In a school with a population as large as ours, safety for students and faculty is not an objective, it is a necessity. The vital job of formulating rules in this field and administering them falls to the Student Safety Council. Acting through elected officers and nine committee chairmen, and aided by Mr. Soliday, the organization undertakes such valuable work as enforcing the no parking rules, maintaining one-way traffic around the school building, coping with problems of safety in the halls, and publicizing safety subjects.

Smoking Council is the one student organization in our school working entirely free from faculty supervision. It is the responsibility of the boys composing the staff to ascertain whether the smoking regulations are properly heeded and, if not, to take necessary steps against the offending culprits. Membership is composed of six seniors and three juniors, who receive their positions through elections in the home rooms.

The student Council is probably the most active and influential of all organizations in our school. Its activities are extremely varied, ranging through all phases of student government. This year the Council entered the social field by sponsoring an after-school dance, the proceeds of which went to a fund to be used on various school projects. Charity also entered into its activities when its members supervised the collection of lilacs for distribution to hospitals. At the numerous P.-T.A. meetings it was the members of the council, again, who assumed the task of ushering the uncertain. Ever eager to learn of new ideas in its field, our Council engages in constant correspondence with the Student Councils of other schools.

With every girl in school a member, and a goodly percent of the activities of the school under its auspices, Girls' Club surely needs its efficient management. The student contribution to the competent administration of the club is Girls' Club Council. The girls elected to this board compose the executive branch of the club's organization.

Most pressing of the Council's duties is, of course, the planning, publicizing, and presenting of the programs for the many meetings of the club. The Freshman girls were given an opportunity to become well acquainted with their "older sisters" when a Freshman party was given by the group.

Girls' Club Council annually invades the field of drama by the presentation of one of the two major productions of the school season, the Girls' Club Show. The success of this enterprise may be judged by the fact that these shows have, through the years, consistently played to "Standing Room Only" crowds.

At Christmas time, under the supervision of the Council, Girls' Club members fill and sell Christmas stockings, all proceeds going to charity.

If the work of Girls' Club Council is great, that of Miss Bennett, faculty advisor, is enormous. It is her Herculean task to lend the proper touch of faculty guidance to the administration of the Council and to keep the entire organization working smoothly and efficiently.

Running to an average yearly audience of 45,000, our skilled projection staff makes visual education a reality at Oak Park-River Forest.

The equipment used in our sound room is among the best available in the country. There are eight projectors in all, each ideally suited to the work for which it is used. For ordinary silent films, the silent projector is brought into play. When musical accompaniment or other sound is on the film, the new Bell & Howell sound projector, the finest of its kind, is used. There are special cases when science instructors wish to demonstrate minute specimens to their classes. For this purpose the microscopic and opaque projections are kept in constant readiness. One of the most frequently used pieces of equipment is the slide projector, which increases by many times the effectiveness of any explanatory speech. Aside from the projectors themselves, the sound room booth is outfitted with all miscellaneous equipment necessary to maintain service of a professional standard.

Equally professional are the technical and extensive training of the members of the staff, which now numbers about twenty-five. The choice of new members and the general supervision of the sound room falls to faculty advisor Mr. Stewart. Because of efficiency required and the value of equipment and film handled, each aspirant is required to complete an extensive period of apprenticeship. Before he becomes a full-fledged operator, he must pass a comprehensive test covering the handling and care of the equipment and conduct in emergencies.

Eminent speakers are brought to student ears through the annual Girls' and Boys' Conferences and the Junior Institute.

Girls' Conference this year chose as a theme "The Time of Your Life," and proceeded to give just that to those attending the three festive and instructive sessions. Dr. Mary Leigh Palmer, of the International Council of Religious Education, and Miss Muriel Lester, the "Jane Addams of London," proved entertaining and inspiring speakers.

The key-phrase of Boys' Conference was "My Job and I." At the Friday evening banquet the address was given by Dr. Paul S. Weaver, Professor of Philosophy at Stephens College. The other discussions were classified as to types of jobs.

The Junior Institute can well be proud of its two speakers at this year's assemblies; Dr. Martin Klotsche, student of international affairs, eminent professor of history, and Dr. Edvard I. Hambro, mayor of Narvik at the time of the German attack upon Norway.

Girls' Club Show

High school life and all the accessories came up for a neat bit of satirization in this year's annual Girls' Club Show, "What a Life." The prime purpose of the production is to raise funds to support the Literary Tabula, but the financial consideration has been far overshadowed by the artistic. Certainly artistic was the warmly human interpretation of that bewildered, bewildering lad, Henry Aldrich, who weekly worries through adolescence on a nation-wide hook up. It took courage to attempt a role already portrayed by such an expert as Ezra Stone, but few there were in the audience who would acknowledge that Haig Shekerjian came out second best. An equally fine bit of make-believe was Jasmin Jenk's portrayal of the high school heart-beat, Barbara Pearson. The hardest role for a student to play is that of a student; but it takes deep insight to fall successfully into the character of a faculty member. This was the task of Harry Brown as the high-strung historian, Mr. Patterson, Alice Hafner as "trouble-shootin'" Miss Eggleston; Nancy Knight as the meticulous Miss Tike; Olive Jean Whitaker as Miss Wheeler, "the woman who lost the band"; and Kenneth Harwood as "Moby" Bradley. Equally adult was the touchingly maternal portrayal of Mrs. Aldrich, by Jini Melchert and the hilarious, slew-footed sleuthing of Detective Ferguson, James Hotchkiss. The proper touch of trouble entered Henry Aldrich's life in the person of the school bully, George Bigelow, as played by Dave Sheehy. "What A Life" will be a living story as long as there are high schools and many there are who still expect to find Elaine Maxwell and Dick Lane, the heart interest, romancing in our own office.

Sophomores

A Sophomore is a strange variety of zoological life, peculiar to a third-floor habitat. Those who have studied his peculiarities maintain that his unaccountable eccentricities are due to the fact that he is a cross between the Greenius Freshmanium and the Upperonius Classmanorium, a transition species. He has an unusually prevalent desire to flaunt his abilities, and can therefore frequently be seen strutting before his fellows in the Tribe Masqueraders. . . . .

By visiting the local water-hole, known colloquially as the lunch-room, one can observe him feeding after his own idiosyncratic fashion. Attempts are made by patient pedagogues to break his wild spirit and to subject him to some sort of rudimentary training, but he seems particularly adverse to captivity. He enjoys gathering with others of his species and assisting at pack assemblings.

Atalanta

The purpose of Atalanta Club is, to quote its constitution, "To stimulate interest in girls' athletics and gymnastics and to promote the ideals of health, sportsmanship, and scholarship."

Towards these goals, programs of a sports nature are presented at meetings, and a general athletic atmosphere is maintained. During the course of the year any girl who wishes to participate in programs is given the opportunity to do so.

Atalanta is a member of the state-wide G.A.A., and, as such, conforms to certain strictly enforced rules. For a girl to become a member, she must present at least 200 points, which may be earned through observing health rules, passing life saving tests, or engaging in various after school sports.

Outstanding event of the year was last fall's play day, in which twelve schools were invited to participate under the auspices of Mrs. Martin, faculty advisor.

Brooks Club, peopled exclusively by students of religious education has added its name to the roster of organizations of this school which work for charity. At Thanksgiving time, money was collected to make a merry holiday for a needy Oak Park family by presenting them with a Thanksgiving basket. So appreciative was the family, and so touched were the members of the club that they have undertaken to continue aiding them throughout the year.

The club, however, is not for work alone, and such activities as picnics for members help to keep alive the spirit of comradeship.

The most memorable day on the club's program was that of the annual mothers' tea. The program was brought to a dramatic end with a solemnly impressive candle light service, representative of the religious nature of the club.

Terpsichore

Embodying the spirit of the Muse of the Dance, Terpsichore Club aims to interest high school girls in contemporary dance and promote creative activities in which they may engage. This year the gay group presented two widely acclaimed programs: a mothers' tea in November, and a recital for the Girls' Club Show in April. Also of note was the sparkling performance of many members of Terpsichore in the dance sequence of the Senior Class Play. The club believes in improving its work by comparing methods with others of the same interests. Thus, many of the members have participated in meetings of similar groups of other schools. Miss Katherine Manning, teacher at the University of Chicago, was invited to serve at a meeting as guest instructress.

Because of her long experience with dance instruction, Miss Gogle, faculty advisor, is unusually well qualified to lead the activities of the club.

Burke and Lincoln

Each year the most promising bucks of the Junior and Senior herds are rounded up in Rooms 232 and 212, hog-tied by Mr. Gehlman or Mr. Wilson, and singed with the brand of "Lincolnite" or "Burkite." In this process of singeing, the boys become fired with parliamentary, debating, and oratorical ferver, and burn with a fierce flare for feuding with the rival organizations.

The principal feature of each meeting of these select flocks is always a guffaw-inspiring debate on some question of national, international, or local inconsequence. Invaluable experience in thinking out and sitting through arguments is gained in the public airing of news and views. Orphean orations, slightly-suggestive stunts, and extemps extraordinaire are prime factors of a bi-weekly good time had by all.

In the spring each group has the pleasure of presenting to the school an assembly, on which diligent effort is put through many meetings. The Lincolnites spent their forty alloted minutes depicting the complete cycle of American legal procedure from the fatal shot to the "And may God save your soul" of the judge's final sentence, only to have the verdict of "guilty" hotly contested by the audience. Burke Club put America on the dissecting table in a fine production of the play "America On Trial."

Burke points to such distinguished alumni as Ernest Hemingway and Bruce Barton to prove the excellence of their organization, while Lincoln counters with the claim that their group hasn't been in existence long enough to allow its members to become famous; and just wait until the 1951 Tabula is written.

Forum and Gavel

With the young ladies of promise the procedure is slightly different. Each fall the cream of the feminine crop is churned by Miss Anthony and Miss Hawkins through the Forum-Gavel separator, which manages to keep a fairly good talent balance between the competing conglomerations. In keeping with the gentler nature of their sex, the girls' groups entertain a less rigorous spirit of rivalry; but, they nevertheless, wage war, total and continuous, against the Roberts-Paul-Plummer "Axis," those totalitarian parliamentarians.

The programs of Forum and Gavel are largely analogous to those of the young men's institutions, with debating again taking the spotlight. "Rostrum-fright," the perennial plague of all speakers and parliamentarians, is annually attacked by a rigorous program of law drills, law talks, extemp speeches, and stunts, all of which leave the young ladies specifically skilled generally genial.

Whatever monotony there may be in these gay goings-on is shattered at regular intervals by the long-awaited joint and special meetings. At Christmas time comes the mothers' teas when crumpets and the functions of the clubs are put on exhibition for parental approval. Diversion of the first water is next offered by the joint meetings with the boys' debating clubs. To climax the year's activities, the two societies themselves come face to face to display their proficiencies and deficiencies in actual competition.

The Muse holds sway in room 126 as the women-of-letters of Story Club gather to breathe life into and hold post-mortems over the literary brain-children of their fellow members. The purpose of the periodical pow-wows is the encouragement of literary interest, the improvement of literary technique, and the opportunity to let off literary steam. However, as the Margaret Mitchells and Daphne DeMauriers of the future discover, it's a "long, long way to literary" and it takes generous portions of Miss Allen's "Glo-Coat" to polish off the rougher edges. Constructive criticism is the aim, but destructive witticisms are the usual result when the impromptu intelligensia attempt in vain to locate the pin-point of talent buried in a haystack of similes, metaphors, alliterations, and onomatopoeias.

Elementary training in the Thesbian arts is given to Sophomore stars-of-the-future in Masqueraders Club. Most of the leads in the Senior Class Plays and Girls' Club Shows can trace their dramatic roots back to some Masqueraders' roster. Gus Edwards had his day as a "Starmaker", and Miss Geller and Mr. Rossetter have successfully gone into the same business, in the process of cutting actors' eye teeth on the Masqueraders' stage.

After receiving the certificate of merit from the infant organization, the flock of fledglings graduates to the Junior rung in the ladder of drama, Footlights Club. Here development is the prime object, building on the foundation of fundamentals acquired in the Sophomore semesters.

The climax of Footlights' season this year was a production novel to dramatics at this school, an operetta, "The Dizzy Baton." "It is one thing to sing; it is another to act, but to sing and act at the same time—that is genius." Without seriously detracting from the merits of the original script, the genii of Footlights did a considerable job of streamlining the production by the addition of a "boogy" piano-player to the "buggy" professor. "Delightful" is the most apt description of the presentation, which has fostered the idea of an "Operetta Club" at this school.

As a medium of combining the practical with the aesthetic, Art Club takes a high place among the fine arts clubs of our school. Membership, although limited only in respect to interest, is composed largely of those planning to make a career of art. Members are also invariably enrolled in one of the numerous courses offered by our art department. The work accomplished in Art Club is an invaluable supplement to that done in actual classes. For faculty advice the group looks to Mrs. Eckhart, at whose home the making of valentines was undertaken. Practical knowledge was afforded by reports and discussions on such topics as commercial art and dress designing, while the aesthetic was served by sketching from models, and similar pursuits.

The Arts and Crafts Club is one of the truly service groups of the school. Its membership is composed of 150 girls, largely sophomore, with a generous sprinkling of juniors and seniors. Time and work in no mean proportions go into service to make, for less privileged children, those braided necklaces, wooden belts, mittens, stuffed calico animals, and the like for the pleasure of needy children and invalid young folks whose "thank you" can only begin to express their heartfelt joy and appreciation for the charitable work. Examples of more eloquent attempts are as follows:

"The gifts from Arts and Crafts Club must have meant a lot of work and are greatly appreciated by the Chicago Commons."

"Many grateful hearts in Gompers this morning are sending you wireless messages of thanks and many little ones will be fairly 'busting' with joy and excitement when the lead of joy reached Gompers."?

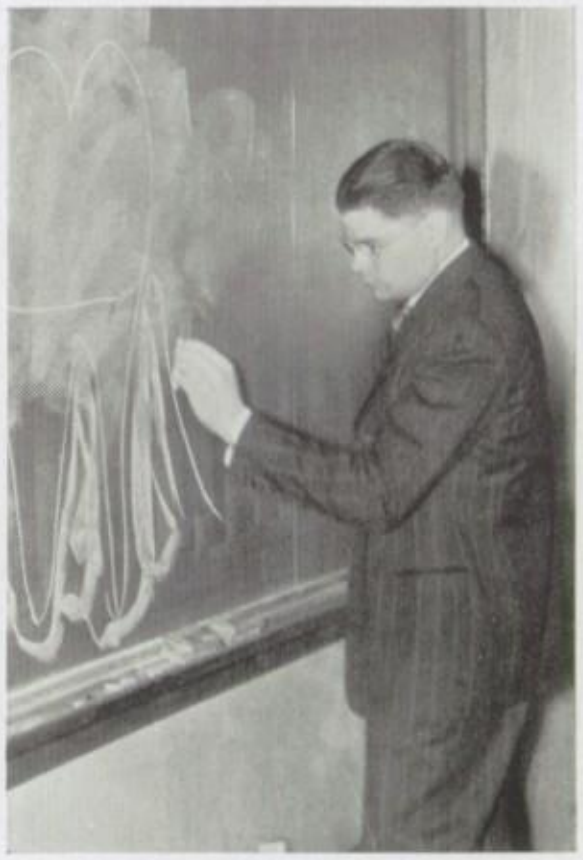
To Freshmen with an eye for the scientific, opportunity is afforded to experiment and observe in the first termers' Science Club. Under the able guidance of Mr. Park, members are brought into close contact with the important phases of scientific research through the medium of movies, lectures, discussion, and actual experiment. The last is, of course, most exciting to the members who, in this way, first become acquainted with the discovery of truth by the scientific method.

Interesting activities of this yearling group included movies on plant life, a lecture and discussion on thermometry, an explanatory talk on the developing of films, and the appearance of Dr. Allen Doner, Chicago Oral Surgeon, under the sponsorship of Miss Wilson, who spoke on the interesting aspects of dentistry. For Freshmen in the midst of General Science, this club takes science out of the classroom and puts it to practical, everyday use.



You see it was this way.

It seems that a prerequisite to appearing in the Spotlight of the Trapeze is membership in Latin Club in one's Freshman year. Whether there is any link between the study of classic civilization in the initial annum and prominence in the Senior Class is a matter of conjecture, but certainly a large percentage of luminaries on the Senior horizon uses Latin Club as the bottom rung in its ladder of success.

With Miss Woodruff as "dictator and imperator" and officers consisting of Co-Consuls and Quaestor, the cream of the Freshman Latin linguists endeavor to make contact with an ancient culture and, at the same time, bring the "Senatus Populusque Romanus" up to date. Toward the former purpose, the club engaged in a study of Roman life, a Roman Christmas festival, and a realistic Roman food-fest, "ab ovo ad mala" (from soup to nuts), while a striking example of the latter was furnished by a Romanized rendition of "Oh, Johnny," in perfect Latin, and Virgil turns over in his dactylic hexameter!

Knocking, as usual.

The figures come to life at Newton Club meetings. Advanced math. students who wish to round out their education in the basic science through extracurricular activities, find the programs of this group designed for just that purpose. This year bereavement came to the Newtonites when they lost their beloved faculty advisor, Mr. Wahl. However, Mr. Sullivan so ably assumed leadership that the club did not cease to function and it is now "business as usual" in Newton. That math. can be fun is proved again and again at meetings where such heavy subjects as Einstein's theory of relativity and the fourth dimension are presented in a thoroughly interesting and informal manner. Newton is becoming famous as the club where students match wits with the great mathematicians of the past and present and seldom come out second best, and also as the club of matchless, deluxe refreshments, where members seldom come out hungry.

Chemistry Club

To accommodate Juniors and Seniors with more advanced interest in scientific research, the extra-curricular program includes Chemistry Club. Because of the great number of those desiring admission, membership is limited to students maintaining at least a B average. The program of the club is varied, yet well suited to the demands of an advanced scientific group. This year variety came in the forms of mysterious tricks with chemical explanations, movies of steel manufacture, and a demonstration of liquid air, while the serious aims of the group were met by such features as lectures by Mr. Morgan, foremost Chicago chemist in the field of sanitation, Dr. Julian, eminent Negro chemist, and instructors in our chemistry department. Lessons in practical chemistry were afforded to members when they visited the American Can Company and other firms to watch chemists in every day action.

Zoology Club

Members of Zoology Club are upper classmen taking zoology and maintaining a good passing average. The club and its meetings, of a strictly scientific nature, emphasize the study of animals. Mr. Aeby, faculty advisor, leads the group's activities, which consist in the main of films, student programs, and outside speakers.

The club was fortunate this year in being addressed by such experts in the zoological sciences as Earl G. Wright, curator of the museum of the Chicago Academy of Science, and Dr. W. A. Young, manager of the Anti-Cruelty Society.

Mr. Wright delivered a demonstrative and instructive lecture on taxidermy and museum mounts. Of equal interest to the members of the club was Dr. Young's discussion of the much seen but little understood dog and cat —their habits, care, and value to mankind. He laid particular stress upon the scientific as well as the humane phases of the subject.

One of the most entertaining, as well as informative, programs was that including the talk by Miss Bondurant, of our biology department, on her trip to Hawaii.

The general air of geniality that is always evident when "good fellows get together" pervades Room 232, rendezvous of Sportsmen's Club, as it does the abode of no other group in this school. Common interest in sporting activities and out-of-doors is the secret.

The aim of the group, beyond furthering the appreciation of wild life and its habitat, has been devising means of furthering the cause of conservation. Toward this end, programs have consisted of such features as discussions by Fred Warning, head of the Conservation Department of Illinois, motion pictures depicting all that is close to the sportsman's heart, and other talks and displays of a similar nature. Of particular interest to the group was the appearance on the program of Jack Maypole, noted outboard-motor boat racer, who acquainted the members with the thrills and chills of this breath-taking sport.

The climax of the season was a day well remembered by a lover of nature. Riding, hiking, and feasting in the open forest made the boys exclaim, "We're just a bunch of over-grown Boy Scouts, but do we have fun!"

Aviation Club attempts to include in the scope of its activities all the various phases of aeronautics in which members may show an interest. With this purpose paramount, variety becomes the keynote of the club's programs. Model building is, of course, the most prominent feature of the club's work; but speakers, movies, and debates on present day aircraft all share the interest of the members.

The most novel undertaking of the group was a series of model airplane contests. Here the skill of the scale-size aces was tested in open competition; and happy was the builder of the replica that longest battled the breezes.

Of great interest to the club were the appearances on the program of Miss Turner, who explained the details of her ground-school course in aviation; and Coleman McVickers, president of the club in 1935.

A science understood by few adults is mastered by the boys of our school through Radio Club. The most unique feature of the organization is a licensed amateur radio station located in school, station W9BMQ. The activities of the club center naturally around the sending and receiving sets; but valuable instruction, as well as entertainment, is afforded by the presentation of qualified speakers well versed in this field, and motion pictures pertinent to radio study.

Proof of the value of the club's work is the fact that many men prominent in radio today can trace their interest in this work back to their primary instruction in Radio Club.

With every publication and organization in school in need of its services, photography has become big business at Oak Park-River Forest High School.

This Senior Tabula, which you are now systematically scanning, is the annual triumph or disgrace of our photography department. Every shuttering, with the exception of the senior formals, is the product of some snap-happy stalwart of Camera Club and the Photo Staff.

Membership in Camera Club is the first step toward pictorial prominence. In this group valuable experience is gained through the instructive programs of the club and through serving a period of apprenticeship as a dark room stooge.

After this elementary training is completed, those showing most signs of promise are granted coveted berths on Photo Staff.

Girls' Camera Club is primarily an instruction group. Maintaining its own dark room, it imparts to its members a knowledge of both the technical and artistic phases of photography.

Each year the boys' and girls' photography departments present exhibits of the best work done in their respective clubs. Those prints of merit are placed for all to see in the front halls.

In the girls' exhibition, Marianne Yasiunas was awarded first prize for her humorous child study entitled "Turn-About." This picture was of such excellence as to be used on the cover of the Oak Leaves newspaper. The second place award went to Betsy Phelps for an outstanding North African landscape, "Gibralter." Another child study, "Added Attention," won third prize for Mary Colianni. Awards were made on the basis of technical and artistic perfection.

First place in the boys' exhibition, or Salon, went to James Serpico's entry, "The Sentinel." A nature study, "The Lilies," by Lewis Case, won for him second place in the competition. In third place was Gordon Houser with his "Opus 3935-J." The judges of this contest were Miss Bondurant, advisor of Girls' Camera Club, Mr. Pelz, of our art department, and Miss Woodruff, head of our Latin department.

Chess Club this year boasts of another "undefeated season." Although primarily a hobby club, the purpose of the group includes promoting interest in the all-time favorite indoor sport and instructing novices in the intricacies of the game. The latter is the duty of the more experienced members who, each fall, take in hand a group of fledglings to be schooled in the fundamentals. Later in the year a "tournament of champions" is held, in which the expert is distinguished from the mediocre. At the present, a challenge match with Morton is in the offing, the results of which will determine the "Chess championship of the Suburban League."

TOWN MEETING OFF FOR A TRIP

Hear ye! Hear ye! Hear ye! Oak Park High School proudly presents its latest contribution for the leisure time of its students—"Town Meeting Club." It's new—it's fun—it's different—but, ah, what is it? To the outsider the name implies little, but the truth of the matter is that it sums up the activities of the club in a nutshell. "Town" acquaints its members with Chicago by means of trips taken to places of interest. Recalling a few, the Field Museum, Rosenwald Museum, broadcasting studios and newspaper offices. Of course, because of a scarcity of time, the trips are always taken outside of school hours and are completely apart from the actual club meetings. The latter are held every other Tuesday at which time the latest trip is discussed, a future trip planned, and the remainder of the meeting spent according to the arrangements of the program committee. Therefore, "Town Meeting" provides a worth-while experience for all; the serious minded individual who appreciates the value of a look into the heart of her city, and the carefree individual who may take advantage of the social opportunities offered through the trips and the programs of the club. These experiences alone promise a bright future for "Town Meeting."

Extemporaneous Speakers

The Extemporaneous Speaking Group has undergone radical reorganization in the past year. It has grown from a rather harmless, mild-mannered discussion group into a haven of heated harangue on all and sundry subjects. The name, which originally referred to the type of speaking practiced, now sets the theme for the entire spontaneous atmosphere of the meetings, or, more properly, caucuses.

At each session, two members present prepared statements of opposing views on some subject, and employ every means known to oratory, drama, and politics to sway the skeptical audience to their way of thinking. After the question has been thus put before the house, the floor is opened to the members for discussion, dissension, and rambling and filibustering of a general nature. With amazing rapidity the discourse wanders from the beaten path and the combined force of the chairman's gavel and that of Mr. Ramsay, genial host of the group, are frequently called into play to prevent the completely unrehearsed programs from ending in spontaneous combustion.

Monogram Club

With the pride and honor of winning a major monogram comes an equally important responsibility. Wherever the orange and blue letter-sweater is seen, its wearer is identified as a representative of the best ideals of our school: sportsmanship, leadership, and achievement. It is his duty to conduct himself in a fitting manner.

In Monogram Club, major letter winners gather to promote these ideals and to formulate rules for the winning of monograms. Mr. Holmes, varsity football coach and head of the physical education department, represents the faculty at club meetings and advises it on all matters, especially changes in athletic rules.

Contrary to popular belief, a set number of quarters or a minimum total of points does not assure a participant of a letter in a sport. Qualities of conduct and scholarship bear equal weight.

Administration of athletic affairs, and a prevailing air of athletic good-fellowship are the outstanding features of Monogram Club.

Probably the most revealing information entered on our personal rating cards is that pertaining to hobbies. As an expression of personality, a hobby comes close to bringing to the surface the innermost interest of a person. On these pages we have pictured a few students who pursue rather unique hobbies.

Guns of every variety fill the extensive collection of Fred Trumbower. For years he has been adding to his assortment every available variety of firearms, from the colonial fowling piece to the western six-gun. Fred gets as great a thrill from tracking down and capturing a rare old flint-lock as a footballer gets from tossing a touchdown pass.

Also in the line of collections is Gertrude Kircher's pastime. The subject of her searchings is all manner of toy animals. Miss Kircher's collection has grown to be one of the most unique of its kind.

In a more mechanical vein is Paul Eskildsen's hobby of designing model automobiles from rough sketch through to the finished blue-prints. This is another case where a profitable vocation may easily grow from a practical avocation.

Chuck Repenning's interest lies largely in the field of science. As a result, he has taken to collecting, identifying, and classifying mineral samples in numbers that amaze the average onlooker and make Chuck an authority in minerology.

Also of a scientific, and rather peculiar nature, is Don Fager's hobby, that of collecting insects. Don has found that he can investigate almost every phase of nature through studying her most universal inhabitants.

Another activity that holds promise of possible practical rewards is Jim Schwartz's photography. Its value as a hobby lies in its unusual combination of the technical and the artistic, both of which Jim has mastered.

Thirty students of our school find musical recreation and instruction in their own Junior Symphony, led by Harry John Brown.

Local talent broadcasts over NBC

This year the local talent of Oak Park-River Forest was put on exhibition by way of the WMAQ air lanes. An invitation to try out for the program was answered with an array of student personalities and probabilities. Cheerleaders Chuck Jenista and Bruce Larson started the proceedings with mood-making cheers. John Pine, Senior Class Vice-president, and Harper Brown, Chairman of the Student Council, were interviewed on personal and student subjects. A skit depicting inter-class life at our school was sent through the ether by an informal semi-dramatic group, the "Lifers." Nancy Diamond, queen of taps, added her scintillating steps to the review. No "amateur show" is complete without a sweet potato duet; Bob Mulford and Dick Borden furnished ours. Throughout the program, the choir, directed by Mr. Little, exhibited our school's musical proficiency. And then we were off the air!

To the student who enjoys importing music, exporting it, or both, Music Club offers ten pleasant afternoons a year. The dual purposes of the organization is, first to present programs, from symphony to swing, delighting the ears of the music lovers assembled, and a close second, to offer an opportunity to the musically ambitious to perform before an audience. This opportunity is open to anyone willing to prepare a selection either individually or in a group. Invaluable experience is afforded the performers, while their soothing scales tend to satiate the aesthetic urge of the audience. Occasionally, outside performers are invited to appear before the club, thus presenting a well balanced diet for music appreciation through Music Club.

Music

This year has been one of change and achievement in our musical department. Under the combined leadership of Mr. Little and Mr. Weckel, great strides have been made in the introduction of new ideas in the fields of conducting and musical education.

Mr. Little, as director of the concert band and organizer of the new choir, had his day of glory when both of these units took first place honors in district competition. Participating soloists also took first and second place honors in the same contests. Aside from his duties in connection with these two groups, Mr. Little directs the marching band and has charge of the second orchestra, which prepares beginners for higher rungs in our musical ladder.

New to our school is Mr. Richard Weckel, who this year assumed leadership of the school symphony. He immediately became popular with the members of the orchestra and has been especially successful in organizing string quartets, choosing for the orchestra music less difficult than played in former years, yet equally effective, and in presenting entertaining assemblies to the student body.

The most popular presentation of our symphonic season is always the May Music Festival, in which the orchestra, concert band, and choruses participate.

Music in Oak Park-River Forest forms an integral part of such outstanding events of the year as the Class Play, Christmas caroling, the "Pops" Concert, Baccalaureate, and Commencement.

Christmas Seal Sale Drive

Each year at the holiday season every member of the student body and faculty unites in a grand effort to aid the worthiest of causes, the Seal Sale Drive. This annual service undertaken by the school is one of which the entire community can well be proud. This year after the receipts were tallied, it was found that a grand total of $5,913.68, had been raised through the diligent effort of students and teachers.

Additional incentive to sell seals is offered by the contest held between the girls and boys. Daily totals for the different groups were posted for student inspection, and interest mounts to World Series proportions as deadline day draws near. This season, the boys, aided by the driving force of Mr. Schneller, emerged victorious; but the contest, as always, was close and spirited.

In the limelight of public approval are the students, leaders in the race against tuberculosis, who have sold the greatest number of seals. While some gain their total by fortunate orders from large companies, the majority find that constant effort raises small sales to tremendous totals.

A glow of good feeling envelops students and faculty as they unite to cooperate with the nation in this annual good turn for humanity.

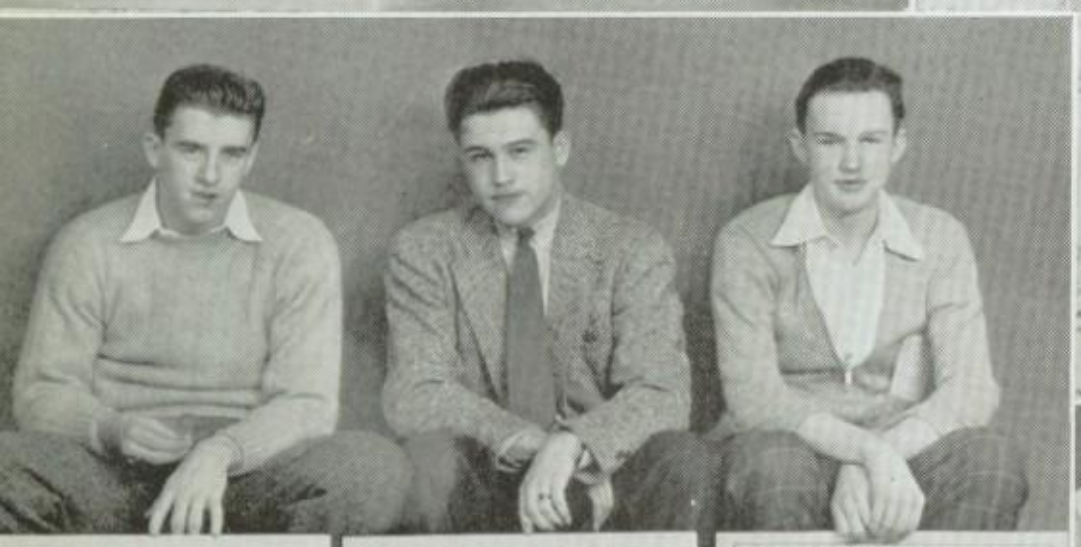
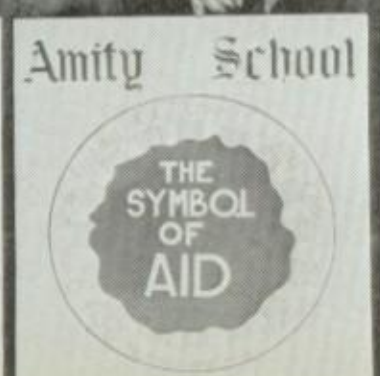
Christmas Dances

During the holiday season we find a unique fusion of the festive and student spirits, resulting in, of course, Christmas Dances . . . No sooner does our formal schooling cease, than the ever-ready social whirl steps in to undertake the task of our more liberal education . . . These mid-winter melees differ from other Dooper dances only in their number, record gate receipts, the presence of "old grad," and the Yuletide motiff of the decorations . . . Christmas trees, candles, snow, and mistletoe help to make life gala for the multitudes engaged in Oak Park-River Forest's favorite indoor sport . . . Most unique of the lot was the invitational tea dance sponsored by a group of Senior girls with a mind to the social . . . On the roster of other strictly informal affairs were featured such typical titles as—The Santa Swing, Snow Ball, Collegiate Informal, Jim Jam Jump, and The Turnabout . . .

Holiday cheer . . . Mid-winter respite . . . Oak Park style.

The Christmas Vacation Social Whirl





Student life reluctantly resumes after the Yule-tide respite, or rather rest-in-spite-of-the-whirl of activities that accompanies each lapse of active student days . . . No sooner were students settled again in their regular studies than the Parent-Teachers' Association held another of its periodic conventions . . . The ever-active Girls' Club presented a novel "Quiz Kids" program for the benefit of Freshman guests . . . Paying guests were the student body at one of those "let's-all raise-money-for-the-Student-Council" dances . . . Students of physics and chemistry were favored by an assembly of scientific miracles, presented by the Bell Telephone Co. . . . Outstanding event of Thespian endeavor was the Class Play, "Disraeli," brilliant in every aspect . . . The cause of the Amity League and charity was fostered by the art work of these three winners in the poster contest: James Dewar, Albert Nelson, and Charles Pyne . . . With the grip of frost growing weaker . . . On to Easter!

Basketball and the boys busy

"Ohhhhhhh"

"On your mark, get set—"

When knee-deep drifts embrace the gridiron and icy blasts sweep through the soccer goals, the sports-minded of Oak Park-River Forest turn for athletic excitement to basketball and swimming. It is then that the floor and pool gain ascendancy, by virtue of the steam-heated protection of the field house.

As soon as the boys are released from their fall athletic obligations, Mr. Scott can be found at his loom, busily reweaving his baskets, demolished in last year's onslaught, while Mr. Smith strains gallon after gallon of pool water in preparation for his annual splash party.

The two swimming teams, Varsity and Fresh-Soph, are under the personal supervision of Mr. Smith; while in the basketball division the senior squad is piloted by Mr. Scott, the Fresh-Soph by Mr. Noth, the Junior-Varsity by Mr. Goker, and the Freshmen by Mr. Frantzen.

After the training period has passed, the benches are dragged into place, the cheerleaders re-limber from their late-fall lay off, the stands are filled to capacity with all-weather sports fans, and the season rolls merrily on.

Girls' Sports move indoors.

When cotton gym suits prove inadequate protection against the increasingly frigid temperature, the fleet and frolicsome girls-in-green retreat en masse to the security of indoor sports.

It is then that the girls, like the more publicized boys turn instinctively to basketball and swimming and volley-ball.

This last named sport is much under-rated by the average onlooker. As the girls participating learn, volley ball requires skill, energy, and agility called for by few other sports.

The reigning favorite of the season is, of course, the quick-tempoed game of basketball, and the girls can play it!

Swimming and table-tennis contribute to the winter roster of after-school athletics, while archery is an all-weather diversion.

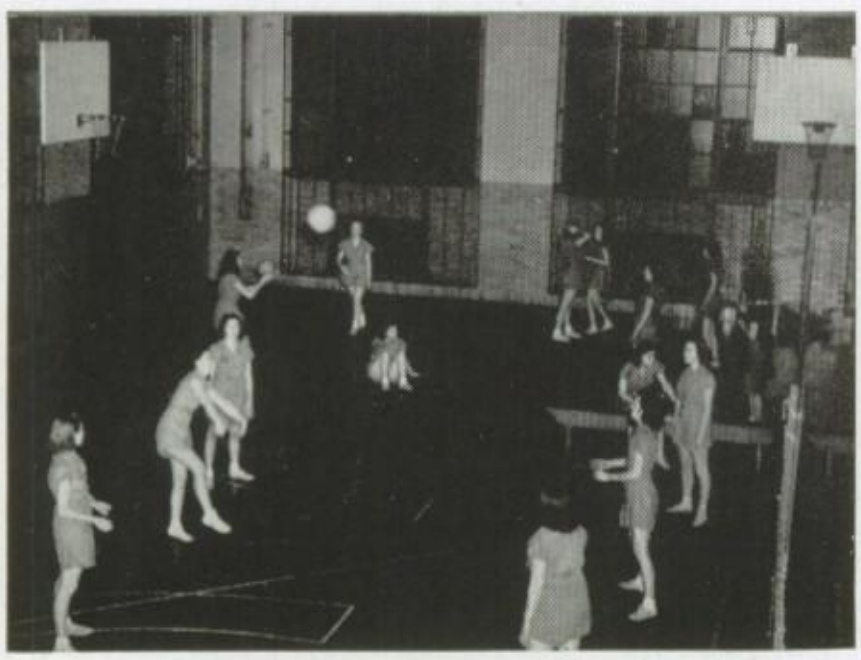
Basketball

Is this a free throw?

After the totals of the girls' basketball tournament had been tallied, the Junior and Freshman teams were found to be co-triumphant.

There was much preliminary training for the participants in the sport before actual competition began. All the rudiments and fundamentals common to the male version of the game were practiced until mastered by our basketball belles. The prime requisite of proficiency in basketball is, of course, skill in shooting baskets. A large amount of practice, therefore, is centered on this phase of the game. To get in position to score, however, is of equal importance, so passing, relaying, pivoting, and dribbling were all marked for intensive drill.



Your guess is as good as ours.

Record attendances of Sophomore and Senior girls marked the coming of the volleyball season this year. After a few weeks of general practice and polishing up on old skills, teams were chosen and the serious business of a tournament was under way. With schedules overlapping because of the enthusiasm with which the sport was greeted, several contests were held each evening. After the final scores were recorded, the Sophomore team was crowned champion, by virtue of a one point victory.

The pulse of our student life may be measured by reading its publications. More than any other medium they are qualified to interpret our school, for they are composed of, by, and for its life blood, the student body.

The publications of our school are three, each serving its individual purpose in our journalistic scheme: a weekly newspaper, the "Trapeze"; a bi-annual literary magazine, the "Literary Tabula"; and an annual yearbook, the "Senior Tabula."

The "Literary Tabula," guided by Miss Burt and Mr. Hohn, attempts to trap in type the cream of the aesthetic efforts of our students. It is a sound barometer of what and how the students are thinking, and how clever they are in turning a phrase and putting some meter in their madness.

The business and circulation problems of all the publications are handled by the Tabula Publishing Board, with Mr. King as faculty advisor and the best business minds as members.

"They're buried in brainstorms piled up to their knees

Since it is a weekly publication, the Trapeze best mirrors our school life with its countless day to day happenings. All the elements of successful journalism can be found any Friday morning in browsing through its eight artistic pages composed of straight news, feature stories, editorials, cartoons, and columns of various types. There are five co-editors of the Trapeze, who weekly rotate through the job of editor-in-chief. In this process of rotating, they usually become dizzy enough to uphold our journalistic traditions and turn out the paper with no waste of effort. In addition to these stalwarts, there are the perennially prophetic sports editor, the scoop staff of reporters, columnists, and humorists, and, of course, Mr. Hecketsweiler, the pilot of the entire fleet.

The Senior Class Play

This year our auditorium stage was transferred into a scene of late-Victorian England. The presentation was "Disraeli," by Louis N. Parker. Unusual talent and dramatic deftness was required of the cast to make the transformation convincing, and convincing it was. In many ways this was the perfect play to produce for a high school and adult audience. It brimmed over with suspense, romance, humor, pageantry, and dramatic conflict—all elements necessary to appeal to a wide audience range.

Carrying the bulk of the play was Roland Resnick, who assimilated himself into the title role of the Jewish Prime Minister with such ease and skill that his has become one of the well-remembered roles performed on our stage.

The plot dealt largely with Disraeli's manipulation of the deal which resulted in Britain's control of Suez. Suspense permeated the production through the "fifth columnist" activities of bewitching spies who fought, but finally bowed to the "Empress Maker."

Humor was present in the forms of the petty conversation of the English noblemen and the slapstick banter of the cockney gardener and postman.

The last act climaxed the presentation with a dazzling show of court pageantry—a brilliant finale to a brilliant production.

"Disraeli"

Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, a great English statesman and author, was Prime Minister of England from 1874 to 1880. He was one of those statesmen who believed that the possession of a large empire was necessary if Britain was to continue to be the most prosperous country in the world; therefore he maintained throughout his administration an imperialistic policy.

Perhaps the most noteworthy events of his ministry were the purchase of the Suez Canal shares and the resulting proclamation of Queen Victoria as Empress of India, thwarting Russia in her designs on Turkey.

He was endowed with great intellectual power, a patience and resourcefulness that were inexhaustible, unflinching courage, and remarkable tact and ability in the art of managing men. For the eminence which he finally attained, he had to fight every inch of the ground. No public man of his generation left a stronger impression on the popular mind of England or has been remembered with more lasting affections.

On August 28, 1839, Disraeli married Mrs. Wyndam Lewis, widow of one of his friends. He says of his Mary Ann, "There was no care that she could not mitigate, and no difficulty which she could not face. She was the most cheerful and courageous woman I ever knew."

Lights Crew

Responsible for much of the final audience effect of our major presentations is the artistic Lights Crew. For weeks these boys rehearse with the production, discovering ways of bringing about the maximum effectiveness from each portrayal. By becoming experts in their field, Mr. O'Brien and his crew have given drama at our school an unusually artistic touch through effective lighting.

There is a big job to be done behind the scenes at each of our school's dramatic productions. That is the job handled so ably by the Stage Crew. It is not merely manual labor that is done behind the closed curtains, for there is real science in being a good stage-hand. Speed and efficiency are the watchwords of Mr. May's industrious staff.

One of the largest and most active of the clubs catering to a senior clientele is Drama Club. It is in this group that the successful stalwarts of the sock and buskin, who have risen successively through Masqueraders and Footlights Clubs, culminate their high school careers in Thespian Endeavour.

Late in the first semester, Drama Club adjourns its usual programs and activities, and recesses to produce the Senior Class Play. This is one of the most ambitious annual undertakings of any organization in school, and perennial success is proof of the abilities of the club's membership and of Miss Payne, faculty advisor and director of the class play.

The class play take-off

Hardly have the echoes of the Play's applause died away in the auditorium when the hardy crew of Drama Club begins assembling its assorted schemes of satire to present the Class Play Take-Off. In the true spirit of burlesque, minor eccentricities of characters are cartooned far out of proportion to reality, producing a collection of the most hilarious caricatures ever to dis-grace any stage.

With the presence of palms and the student Sunrise Service, Easter arrives, coaxing spring as it comes. . . . Our school looks friendly in fall, austere in winter, but glows with unrivaled warmth and life when spring sunbeams catch her in a candid pose. . . . Equally candid was the fashion show and exhibit presented by the joint efforts of Terpsichore and Girls' Clubs. . . . Long awaited and joyfully received are the spring graduation dances. . . . "Big name" orchestras, equally famous floors, and ideal atmosphere contribute to culminate with a fitting climax our social season. . . . Hardly would one term our annual Junior Prom an anti-climax. . . . Balmy breezes brought the sports enthusiasts to the active and spectator ranks of baseball and tennis. . . . The ranks of Sportsman's Club turned out to do battle with a herd of high-spirited horses, and bore subsequent battle scares. . . . Of the Vernal vacationers, probably the longest distance was traveled by Gay McDowell, who made Mexico City her destination. . . . Of course, there were the students who wandered back about half-past Wednesday and claimed their calendars had stopped. . . . And now, without a stop, on to June and Commencement!

Spring again— swing again with Baseball,

In the spring comes the great movement to the out-of-doors and the inhabitants of the field house move into summer quarters. Local aspirants in track, baseball, golf, and tennis vie with the first robin for the honor of announcing that "spring is here."

And once it is, there's no stopping the valiant warriors of the lap, diamond, course, and court, and the local stars start blossoming faster than the buds. Guidance for the track men is present in the persons of Coaches Woodruff, Harshbarger, Fuog, and Holmes. The future of baseball at this school is entrusted to Mr. Foster, for the Varsity, and Mr. Asbury, for the Fresh-Sophs, while Mr. Noth plays the role of keeper-of-the-courts and Mr. Gocker watches over the local divot-diggers.

"He floats thru the air—"

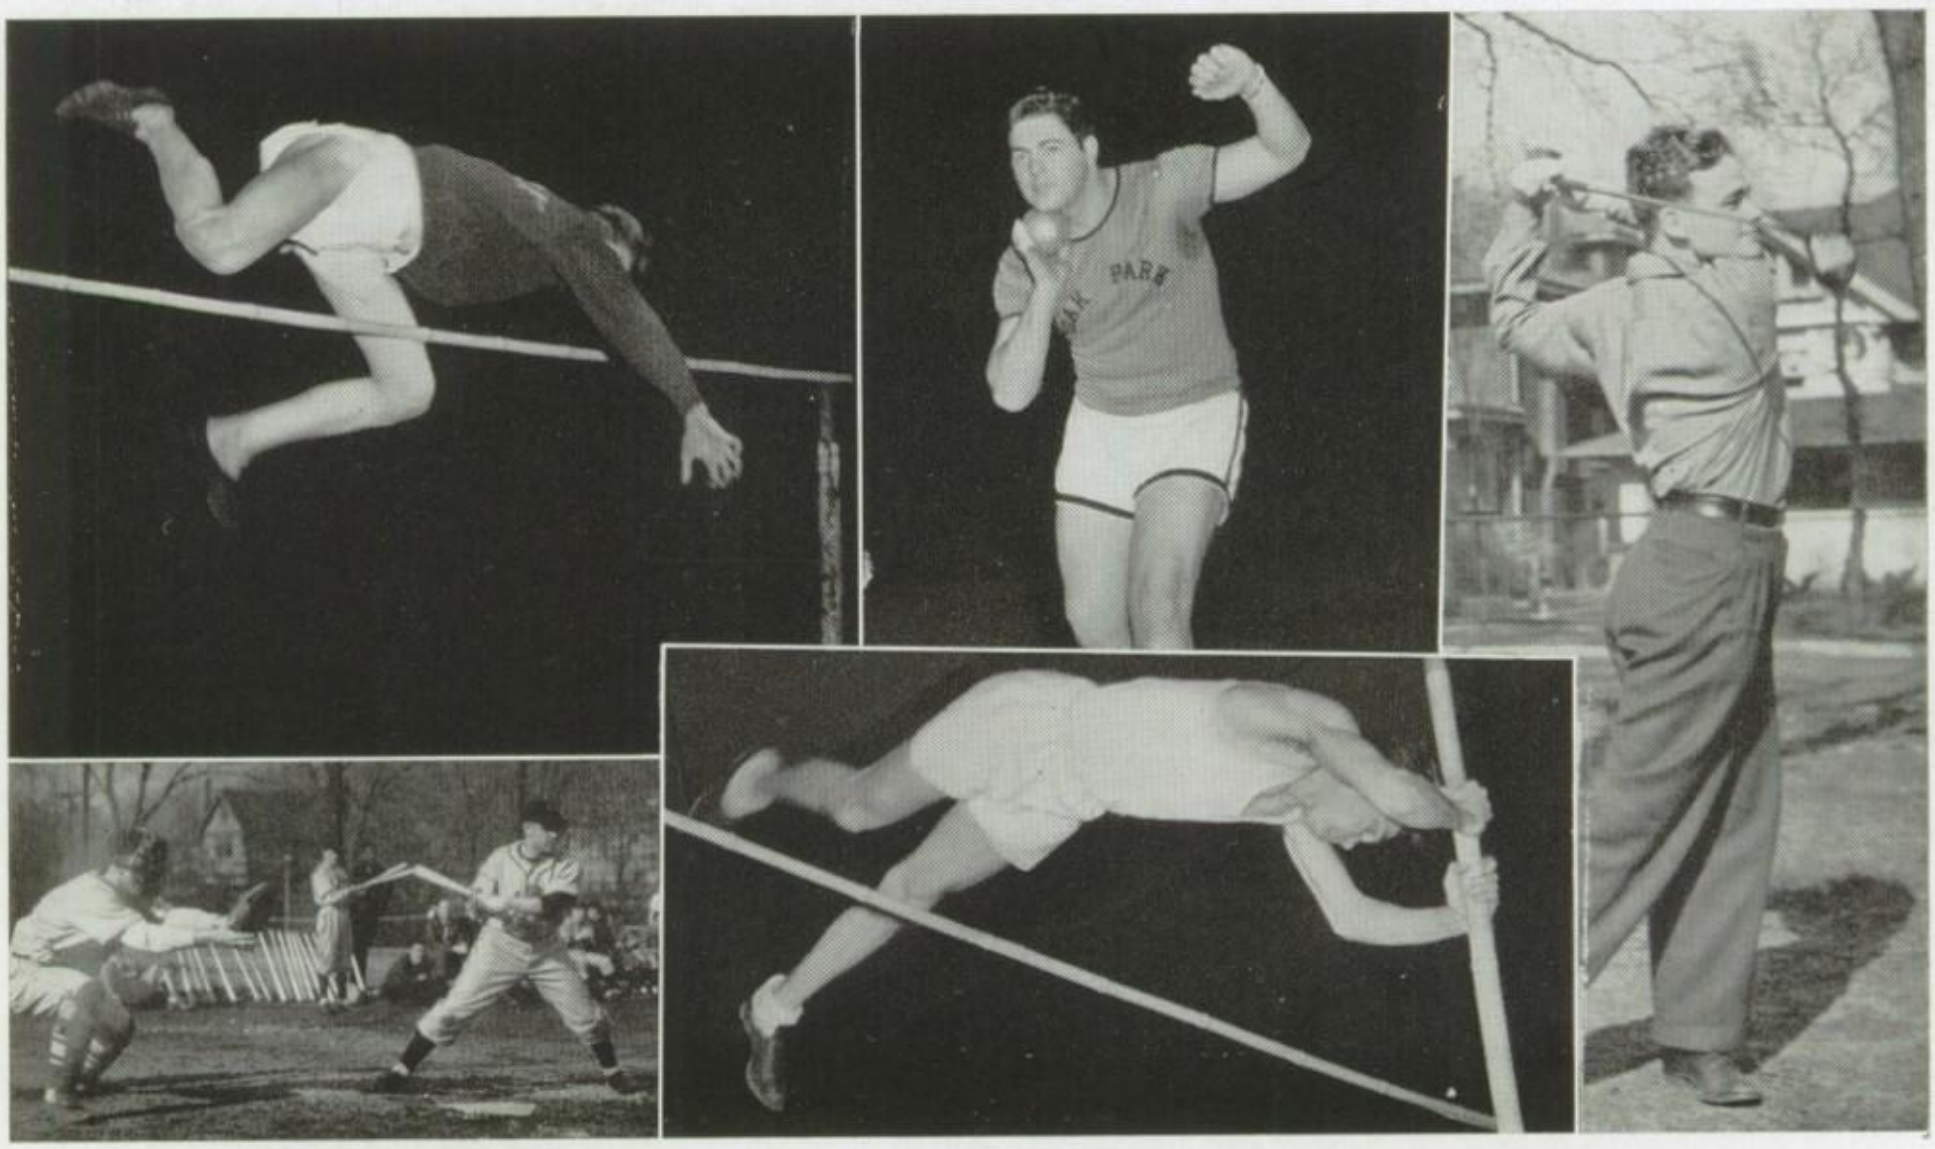
Swing it!

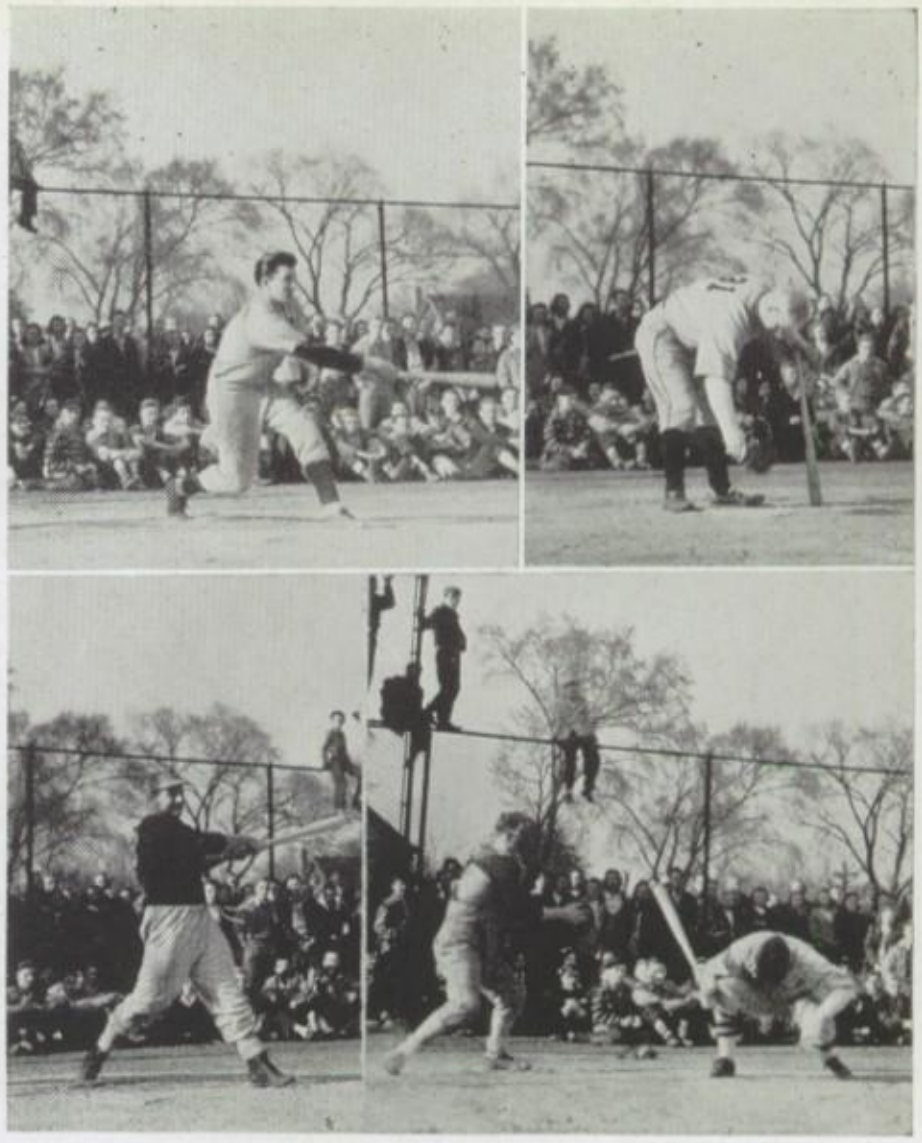


the boys start to

Tennis, Golf, Track.

Tradition is very strong at Oak Park-River Forest. In fact it is strong enough to bring "nine old men" of the faculty into annual baseball competition with an equally agile group of seniors. Eagerly the pugnacious pedagogues toss aside their chalk for chest-protectors, beat their textbooks into triples, desert their desks for the diamond, and begin to think of a "slide rule" in terms of falling away from the baseman.

The Team of the Learned, composed of Mssrs. Frantzen, Noth, Fuog, Little, Asbury, Holmes, King, Roehm, Foster, Mathews, Hohn, Buske, Metcalf, and Carson, won this year's contest by the astronomical score of 13-5. All this on two hits and the benevolent comedy of errors committed by Mssrs. Harris, Jepson, King, Anderson, Brown, DeButts, Scott, Ellerbe, Gordon, Bock, Dewar, and Thon.



The Senior-Faculty game.

Now travel!
They're off!

Snappy comeback.

Score?
Swing batter!

Fans of the Court and Diamond.

Released by the weather

sports take an outward swing.

In the spring our young girls' fancy turns to the pastimes of baseball, tennis, and swimming.

The national game, in a somewhat "modified" form accounts for many of the after-hour sessions put in by our Agile Amazons.

Nor are the courts forgotten; wholesale invasion by youthful racqueteers begins with the first blossoms of spring. For eight weeks the girls do battle with the fine points of the game and culminate their efforts in intramural and interscholastic tournaments.

In addition to our usual athletics this spring, a contest was held during National Posture Week to determine which girls in school have the best posture. The winners were:

Helen Matern, first.

Marilyn Marsh, second.

Betty Lou Schultz, third.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Each year the quality of our graduating seniors is recognized by the colleges of the country by the awarding of the many desired scholarships. On these pages are the pictures of those students who received scholarships at an early date. After the engraver's deadline had passed, only the names of other winners could be printed. In addition there have been many subsequent scholarships won too late to appear in this volume. Scholarships, such as those to most eastern schools, are awarded after the middle of May.

"A penny saved is a penny earned"

An Old Thought But a Modern One

Not only is the penny earned. It has helped make a good citizen; one who can stand on his own feet; meet his own emergencies; one who has added to the wealth of the country by self denial.

Factories, roads, reservoirs for irrigation are all built by the power of saved money. Not so long ago it was thought that we had too many factories,—now we are building more, with money borrowed from savers.

The basic growth and strength of our country comes from its savers.

FINE FOODS . . .
Are THRIFTY FOODS

Thrifty people everywhere have found through long experience that nothing quite takes the place of quality. Quality means dependability in flavor, uniformity, and wholesomeness. In the long run the beneficial results obtained from Quality Foods overshadows any savings in price —for the extra enjoyment, extra-nourishment, extra-satisfaction cannot be measured by dollars and cents. Strickland's Quality Foods while being Quality-Plus cost you no more than ordinary foods.
